SINGLES OF THE WEEK

THROWING MUSES: Dizzy (4AD)

"Love that villain on the run". Reading between the lines, Kristin's intoxicated by the Texas sun and falls head-over-heels for an Indian renegade – "In need your dark skin/To sit beside me in my car/Light up my cigar . . ." Irresistibly sexy and loveable. Stamp on The Bangles' 'Eternal Flame' and chew on the skin of this.

JOHN HIATT: Tennessee Plates (A & M)

Strange echoes of 'These Boots Were Made For Walking' before John-boy gets back in his car and roars down the highway of life. Diamond rough country ballad about a wanted man driving "a Cadillac with Tennessee plates". It's the way he tells 'em.
